Quick Multi-Copy Latest

Quick Multi-Copy is a clipboard enhancer built to help you to store, organize and use up to ten clipboard entries at once. Features: • 10 clipboard entries. • List your current clipboard entries with a list and a couple of buttons. • Insert paragraphs, files, folders or any movable items with the F keys. • Empty the list whenever you wish to load a new set of items. • Pause and unpause the app to keep things organized, be it you or Quick Multi-Copy. • No internet connection needed. Quick Multi-Copy is portable; it can run off the SD card. No installation required. Additional Notes: • Multiple files and folders can be stored in the list, and the items can be inserted as long as the app is running. • The F9 button is there for inserting file transfers from within Quick Multi-Copy, but if you'd like to use anything else then do it from the OS. • Special thanks to Jason Perez for adding such nice and helpful code in order to make this possible. What's new in version 0.2.0: • Clarified copy and paste hotkeys for the list items. • Fixed bugs in handling file transfers. • Added some history to the list, to help keep a close eye on the wanted entries. • Quick Multi-Copy no longer wipes out the new entries when the update is forced. Thanks for making such an amazing piece of software. I have had it on my phone and laptop and have really taken advantage of it. My only wish is that you made it into some sort of universal card reader for android. I keep getting offers for free/cheap reader applications every day. The only thing I would add is some indicator when an item is inserted into the list (with file names would be nice), something like an indicator in the corner or a small 'spinning' circle that fills up as it fills up. It wouldn't be difficult to add. Just a thought. I'm using this on my HP Envy X2 11". It works flawlessly on my device. I was having trouble since I changed the keys myself to work with my capacitive touch screen and the only way I could get this to work was to enable it in the settings. It's a must have for if your on windows as the F10 - F11 keys were giving me a headache 09e8f5149f

Quick Multi-Copy is a clipboard helper which makes it easier to control one's clipboard history. In brief, it's a small helper for those who are not afraid of getting their hands dirty by editing their system files. This alternative to advanced a clipboard handling tool such as Windows Vista's popular Data Copy A -> B or WordA -> WordB was discovered by using a small trick, posted to the free crack lobby and then tested on the whole world. In this post, I will try to expose what this program is capable of, why it's interesting and what kinds of tasks it could help with. Then, I will list the ways to get hold of the software, how to use it and how it can be set up. What is Quick Multi-Copy? It's a memory cleaner, a bit like a recycle bin for your clipboard. The icon should make it pretty clear to use and what it's all about, but for those who would like to know more about it, I will go through it step by step. Using Quick Multi-Copy So let's dive into the first action available in the program. Each of the hotkeys has a different function. Most important, if you have more than one entry in your clipboard, you can use the F5 key to replace the last entry with the one next to it. If the last entry is the first one, F5 moves to the second one. And so on. Press F1 to empty the list, then use the F5 key to overwrite the current entry with the entry next to it. Press F6 and you'll move one step up. And F4, of course, should move you back by one step, and F8 simply hides the interface (I'm sure there's a better term for that!). This is so easy to use. The F5 key simply saves you the need to type the name of the entry one by one. If you want to take a look at the last ten entries that you've kept, all you need to do is to check the box on the top right, then press the F6 hotkey, and you should see the latest
